Public Procurement Document-Completeness Agent

Model: llama3.1:8b | Prompt: v2.0-per-item + adjudicator-v1.0 | Method: one check per checklist item | Review threshold: 0.85 | Context: 16,384 tokens | 16 September 2026, 01:24 UTC

19 of 19 cases behaved as expected.

Tested against: A seven-page synthetic tender submission, the same content again as a Word file and as plain text, a scanned image-only version of it, a realistic tender package containing none of the required documents, and a sixty-page document used to test the size limit. Every document is invented; no real bidder or tender data was used.

Limitations

- The machine used for testing has no graphics card, so the model runs on the processor alone. Each check takes roughly three to five minutes. Faster hardware would not change the verdicts, only the time taken.
- All submissions used are synthetic and short. A real tender pack is longer, more often scanned, and less tidily written.
- Only one checklist of ten items was used. A different checklist, or one written in different language, may produce different results.
- The optical character recognition step promised in the architecture document has not been built, so scanned documents cannot be checked at all yet. The system refuses them clearly rather than pretending to read them.
- These results describe one specific model at one specific setting. They are a starting point to improve on, not a final measure of what is achievable.
